

Native Plant Restoration

Spring 2010

Special Thanks to United States Fish & Wildlife and Brownies of Manhattan Beach for their Generous donation of Native plants...

Luhui Isha, left, explains the importance of giving an offering to the earth before planting or harvesting...

US fish & wildlife volunteer high fives one of the Jr. gardeners

US Fish & Wildlife Volunteer, Kate Eschelback (center back), leads the Brownie troupe in "Plant Yoga" teaching them a plant's life cycle through physical movement. Even Wishtoyo's Executive Director, Mati Waiya, reaches his fingers toward the Sun w/all the children emulating the growth pattern of plant life.

Mom & Daughter, Kim & Kelly Martin, plant a coffee berry plant together

Master Gardener, Kristina Ward assists the Juniors.